

Chaplaincy has been a ministry of Jericho Road for many years. Through Chaplaincy we have seen people serve in hospitals, prisons and in the wider community. The stories of lives transformed by God working through these ministries are remarkable, exciting and extremely encouraging.

The work of a chaplain closely resembles that of a missionary – embracing the calling to serve others outside of the church setting.

An important consideration in Chaplaincy ministry is how the ministry is funded. Although we receive government subsidies for work in prisons and hospitals, and some support from General Assembly and other sources, this is insufficient to fund the full cost of placing chaplains in these settings and the associated infrastructure of the Chaplaincy team.

Our Chaplains need the help of faithful individuals and churches, to provide the prayer and financial support to continue this ministry.

Your support through prayer and donations, is a vital part of this ministry.
